Technology Integrators Named by e.Republic's Center for Digital Government

Sacramento, Calif., - Aug. 27, 2008 – Information technology integrators from the private sector were recognized for their expertise and outstanding solutions at the Center for Digital Government's 2008 Integrator Awards ceremony in Colorado Springs, Colo. Public sector groups throughout the U.S. nominated partnering companies whose creative IT solutions provided exceptional cost savings, streamlined service and easier public access.

Executive Vice President of the Center, Cathilea Robinett, said, "IT partnerships between state and local government and the private sector are vital for advancements in digital government. As such, we are thrilled to acknowledge these companies for the stellar work they've done to improve technology in order for government to better serve its citizens."
